

Where the Money Goes

Childhood Cancer Research

To date, Alex's Lemonade Stand Foundation has raised more than $300 million for one purpose: to end childhood cancer. From innovative early-stage research to lifesaving clinical trials, we work with our Scientific Review Board to select projects that give world-class researchers a chance to collaborate, investigate and help discover breakthroughs to find cures for more kids with cancer.

Childhood Cancer Family Support

Your support helps fund programs so families can focus on what really matters – their child's health.

- Resource Navigator on staff connects families with resources from ALSF or other organizations that best fit their needs.
- Travel For Care assists families who need to travel for a child's treatment.
- SuperSibs supports siblings of kids with cancer with special mailings made just for them.
- Flashes of Hope provides free, high-quality portraits of childhood cancer families.

Meet Josie

Josie was 5 months old when she was diagnosed with juvenile myelomonocytic leukemia, a rare pediatric leukemia. For Josie, timing was everything. A brand-new clinical trial offered an upfront treatment: a potential cure without long-term side effects. That trial originated 2,500 miles away, but thanks to our Center of Excellence Grant, Josie could access the treatment at her home hospital in Cincinnati. The treatment is working, and Josie continues to shine.
